Did not receive in 2025, applied late for exemption.*

Recall that a 1% increase in taxes is worth $30,000 or $14.43 for the average residential property. The total value of all exemptions resulted in the average residential property owners' taxes increasing by $91.53. If exemptions were given only for the District portion of the taxes, then it would result in the average residential property owner paying an additional $47.03. District tax increase for 2025 was $53.86 for the average residential property.
